1. There are so many aspects that differ the Western and Eastern education system such as the way of how children in both areas study and what method the teachers use in those areas to teach the children. The biggest difference between Western and Eastern education system is that the Western education system is more liberal and gives freedom to students to choose their own path. The students have their freedom of choice of what field they want to focus on. Whereas in many Eastern countries, they tend to learn all of the subjects no matter if it will be affected their life or not. Though some of them dislike math, they have no choice but to learn then understand it. As the result, we can find million of cases where some people are brilliant at particular subjects at their school but don't have any skills to provide them the proper life. The method of teaching in both sides also quite different from one another. The simplest example for this can be found in a country that has the best education system in entire world: Finland. For the last 20 years, Finland is considered as the country that has the best education system, of course it doesn't just come in one night and without no reasons. In Finland, the students don't have to any homework since the most important aspects in learning there isn't just about high score in all subjects. The students have their choice to choose their favourite subjects and skill that they want to learn deeper. Meanwhile in most Eastern countries, the students will always have homeworks 5 days a week beside what they have learned in class. Those homeworks obviously give them unimaginable pressure in their early age where they shouldn't have to think too much in such heavy pressure.

2. Stereotype, prejudice and racism obviously bring countless terrible affects for the society. In some cases in America for instance, the chaos often happen between the black and white people there that usually caused only by a simple reason. Other than that, based on research from University of Chicago those issues above have also affected the health of people who got judged by many bad labels. The blood pressure of people who got judged tend to be higher than people who don't. That issue lead into another worse one, economy. According to some research, the minorities (Asian or African) who work in US company tend to make less money than white people who work at the same place though they have the equal skill and ability. All of those troubles prove that stereotype, prejudice and racism aren't the mild and uncomplicated issues at all. Therefore, it's important for all of us to realize that we're all the same, there's nothing differ us though we come from different countries, speak in different language or even believe in different religions.

3. Although terms "bullying", "harassment", "discrimination", and "racism" seem quite identical, they actually have different meaning. "Bullying" is an act of harm people whether it's verbally, physically, or mentally in order to dominate in particular society. There are various bullying forms that can be found around us, it can be in social media, neighborhood, and the worst is at school environment. Bullying often experienced by people who have slightly different from the majority such as those who have mental illness. If they study at the school that don't provide the special treatment, they tend to get bullied by other students who have normal and healthy mental. "Harassment" simply means behaviour that annoys or troubles someone without any purpose. Meanwhile bullying is often experienced by people who are slightly different from the majority, harassment can be experienced by all kind of people whether they're rich or poor, children or adult, educated or uneducated. Harassment also can be found around us, even in the street. The most example of harassment is when a lady pass bunch of men, they tend to call the lady with improper name or even mention filthy words in front of her. "Discrimination" simply means treating people differently because of their skin colour, gender or age. One of the clearer examples can be found in work environment when two workers that have different genders but work at the same field and the same company. Though they have the equal skill and ability, woman usually tend to get lower salary than man. "Racism", on the other hand is the belief that personality, behaviour and moral of particular race is superior to another. Obviously, we will never forget the dark history of black people slavery that happened in America hundred years ago.

4. Since we live in such various people and society, tons of culture conflicts that can happen in a heterogeneous society. Different thoughts of political choices, religions, or even races. If election time is coming, we will see so many chaos suddenly happen among groups of people though they used to get along. They tend to choose their favourite candidate over their own life. Although they know the bad consequences of their terrible action, still every year the same chaos always happen again and again without any solution.
